PLEADS GUILTY. William B. Roberts of Columbia Admits Murder of Wife-Sentenced to State Prison-Crime Due to Drink.

been under indictment for murder in the first degree, having murdered his wife in the Wellswood district of Columbia June 7, Monday pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the superior court at Rockville and was sentenced to not ess than ten and not more than fif teen years in state prison

Mrs. Roberts died at her home Als. Rogers died at her home in Columbia on the evening of June 7 following peculiar circumstances. Roberts had been to Colchester that day and had drunk, and it is assumed that his wife scolded him for it upon his return. There was a quarrel and when neighbors arrived Mrs. Roberts was ying unconscious on the ground near the driveway and a stone was beside her. She was carried into the house, her. She was carried into the house, and when it was learned that life was extinct the medical examiner was called in on the case. That official found nothing to fix the death as an unnatural one and he based his findings, it is thought, on the story of Roberts that while they were quarreling she had dropped dead. Roberts was greatly feared in the neighborhood where he lived, as he had been known to make a number of threats.

The body was taken to Tarrytown,
N. Y., and hurled. Several days later.
First Selectman Winter of Columbia became convinced from various stories circulated by neighbors that a ries circulated by neighbors that all was not as appeared at first, and the matter was brought to the attention of Covoner Robert E. Fisk of Stafford, who had the body exhumed when evidence of violence was found. The autopsy disclosed that death was due to a hemorrhage of the brain caused by extenral violence.

Husband Taken to Jail.

Following the funeral Roberts came back to this city from Tarrytown, N. Y., and was found beastly drunk in a doorway on upper Main street. He a doorway on upper Main street. He was before the police court the next morning and was sent to Brooklyn for a term of thirty days.

During his term the evidence was gotten together so completely that there was but small question of his guilt, and he was arrested and taken to the Tolland county jall when his thirty days were up, and after being given a preliminary hearing in Columbia, probable cause being found, was bound over to the present term of the superior court. Sheriff Sprague took him to Tolland county jail, where he has been ever since, except when he was taken to Rockville at the opening of the present term of court and presented before the grand jury that found a true bill and returned an indictment oe the murder charge and dictment oe the murder charge and the trial was set for the 27th inst. Saturday there was a conference be-tween State's Attorney Charles Phelps of Rockville at Attorney William A. Sing of this city, who had been re-ained as counsel for the accused, and
